

Accademia Fiesolana

Compulsory seminar for SPS first-year researchers, 12-20 September 2024

Accademia Fiesolana is the SPS Department's introductory department seminar. Its objective is for first-year researchers to become familiar with the research done in the SPS department. It consists of seminar meetings in which the faculty members of the department introduce their research. There is also a session showcasing the department's pluralism, in which two very different theoretical and methodological approaches to the same topic – identity – are brought together.
